Cardiff Council Issue 135 March 2012

Photograph courtesy of Cloth of Gold

• These new giant models were one of the highlights of the St David's Day parade that took place in the city centre on March 1. The Giants Parade featured huge models of Sir Tom Jones, Gethin Jenkins, Shirley Bassey, Owain Glyndwr and Ruth Jones created by local school children from All Saints Church in Wales Primary, Mount Stuart Primary, Llanederyn Primary, Glyncoed Primary and St Michael's with the help of artists from Cloth of Gold.

Millions more to be spent on roads and schools under budget proposals

THE Council has set its budget for the next financial year, investing money in vital services such as education and repairing roads, as well as maintaining the momentum of the city's development.

Under the new budget it is planned that around £44m will be ploughed into the city's roads and footways over the next five years, with resurfacing work taking place across the city.

The Council has also underlined its commitment to education, with schools budgets increased by more than two per cent, which equates to around £4.5m worth of investment.

There will also be extra funding for street cleaning and measures to tackle crime and anti-social behaviour.

It means an average Council Tax rise of just 1.4 per cent which is the second lowest of the last decade. Householders in average Band D homes will pay £936.56 as the Council's element of Council Tax, although the final council tax bill will also include money for South Wales Police, and, in some areas, Community Councils who also impose their own levy.

The budget also sees the council making £10m efficiency savings as the council continues its transformation project, which will see £144m saved over five years.

A further £11.5m has been set aside for a new central bus station and the redevelopment of Central Square, as well as money towards bringing a new International Conference and Convention Centre to the city, which it is estimated will bring in around £46m a year to the Welsh economy.

Council Leader, Councillor Rodney Berman, said: "Over the past eight years, Cardiff's council tax rise has, on average, been the lowest of any authority in Wales and the aim of this budget was to keep council tax as low as possible while putting forward proposals that we think will provide the right level of services.

"The money we are investing in schools will be crucial in driving up results, particularly for children from poorer backgrounds, while the level of funding we are investing into repairing roads and footways is unprecedented and underlines our commitment to improving our essential infrastructure across the city."

He added: "Once again we have delivered a budget that puts the needs of the people of Cardiff first, enabling us to continue our work in delivering excellent frontline services, investing in key areas such as education, as well as continuing the development of the city."

A day in a life

The latest in a regular series looking at jobs carried out by council employees. This month Heather Brown, Events Development Manager, talks to Capital Times.

Photograph by Emily Morris

I have been with the Events Team for over ten years and have worked on a variety of events including the Christmas lights switch-on, Cardiff Festival and Wales Rally GB.

I trained to be a stage manager for the theatre at the Royal College of Music and Drama but during holidays I worked as a seasonal staff member for the council. Each year my role got bigger until I found myself here as Events Development Manager!

The hours can be anti-social and I'm usually working when most people are on their holidays but I'm very lucky to have such an interesting and varied role. No two days are ever the same.

Prior to an event I'm planning budgets, organising artists and creating the programme, making sure I brief the team on every aspect of the event. My favourite part of organising an event is sourcing artists that I think people will enjoy; it's fantastic seeing those ideas coming to life and wowing the crowds.

I get my inspiration for events in a variety of ways including travelling, attending festivals and the city itself inspires me. Roald Dahl Plas has been a great addition to the city's infrastructure and a source of inspiration for a number of events.

During events I'm working with the whole team to make sure everything goes to plan and working on possible contingency plans. The weather is the greatest worry for us, but I'm delighted to say in 20 years we have never cancelled an entire event. We always have a plan B! On event days I definitely get an adrenaline rush and there is nothing quite like the satisfaction of seeing plans come together and people enjoying themselves.

I'm often working on between 10 and 15 events at one time so I really have to be organised in my role and team work is essential for success. One of my favourite events to organise is the Cardiff International Food and Drink festival. This is because I have worked on it since the very beginning and it's very satisfying to see how much it has developed into something that is very much a highlight of our events calendar.

2012 is a big year for myself and the events team. Alongside our usual jammed-packed programme we have some additional and very important key celebrations to mark. Cardiff will of course host the first Olympic events at the Millennium Stadium which is a huge privilege and we have a number of great events planned including welcoming the Olympic Torch Rely. The Queens's Diamond Jubilee will also be marked in the city with a number of events. These are both huge occasions and the eyes of the whole world will be on us during the Olympics, so no pressure!

I really think that over the years the events held in Cardiff have helped create a vibrant and interesting city. We have proven time and time again that we can deliver world class events here and I'm proud to be a part of the team helping to raise the city's profile.

Another successful year for the Capital Cardiff Fund

AS another financial year draws to a close, the Capital Cardiff Fund and has proven to be a huge success.

Cardiff Council launched the Cardiff Capital Fund, an initiative which provides financial help to businesses across the city, in April 2009 as a direct response to the economic downturn.

The Fund offers financial assistance in the form of grants, loans and equity investments to new and established businesses within the Cardiff's key sectors – creative industries; bio/life science; ICT; manufacturing; business and financial services; and green technologies.

The Fund is divided into two categories – the New Enterprise Start-up Fund and the Capital investment Fund – and to date 48 companies have benefited, with over £1m being paid out, creating an estimated 648 jobs.

Deputy Leader and Executive Member for Economic Development, Councillor Neil McEvoy said: "In today's climate, businesses need all the support they can get and I am delighted to see the Capital Cardiff Fund still providing important funding.

"The Council recently agreed that enhanced resources should be made available to companies through the Fund, broadening the package of support. This will increase the Fund's long-term viability and further enhance its already high regarded reputation."

Developer chosen to build new ice rink

THESE stunning images show how the next phase of the International Sports Village (ISV) will look once the new Waterfront development is completed.

Cardiff Council has chosen a development partner to build a new twin pad ice arena and a snow slope as part of the Waterfront site.

The new ice arena and snow slope, which will include both a 150m ski slope and a smaller 50m nursery slope, will be delivered first followed by a multi-storey car park, hotel, bars, restaurants, other sports and leisure facilities and sports-related retail.

The project will be developed by Helium Miracle 113 which was successful in the Council's recent tender to build the scheme.

Design work is due to begin on the new ice arena immediately, with it set to be completed in time to accommodate all or most of the 2013/2014 ice hockey season. The whole project should be finished within five years of commencement.

Because of the commercial elements within this scheme the new ice rink, ski slope and leisure snow and ice facility, will be built with no capital funding contribution from the Council.

The International Sports Village site has been one of the Council's big success stories over the last few years and is one of the largest regeneration projects currently taking place in the UK. The news about the new phase has been warmly welcomed by snow and ice enthusiasts in Cardiff.

Cardiff Council Leader Rodney Berman said: "Cardiff Council is fully commitment to ice hockey and ice skating provision in the capital and I am extremely pleased that these plans for a new rink, as well as the proposed snow facility, are moving forward.

"The new twin pad rink with spectator seating, bars and cafeterias will be the new home for the Cardiff Devils and this Waterfront development will be another cornerstone of the International Sports Village, which is key within the Council's plans to further enhance Cardiff's reputation as an international capital and a major tourist destination."

Paul Ragan owner and CEO of the Cardiff Devils added: "It's the news our passionate fans and growing junior section have been waiting for, confirmation that a twin pad ice rink will at last become a reality. Huge credit must go to the Leader of the Council, the Chief Executive and his team at Cardiff Council for seeing this process through and we look forward to working closer with the tender winners."

News in brief

New programme for mums to keep fit before and after giving birth

A new health programme to advise and educate expectant mums on keeping fit before and after giving birth has been launched by Cardiff Council and the University Hospital of Wales (UHW) midwifery team

Bump into Action is the first of its kind, offering mums a complete package of support throughout their pregnancy. Education sessions will take place at local leisure centres and be delivered by the midwifery team.

Professional health and fitness teams will also be on hand with up to date information on staying active during pregnancy, how to keep safe and benefits to both mother and baby by keeping active.

The Bump into Action programme, is being carried out in partnership with Active Cardiff, the Family Information Service, and Flying Start and is split into two kinds of classes; antenatal and postnatal.

Antenatal classes are for mums who are looking to keep active with their bump and postnatal for mums who want to make that positive step out, with their new bundle of joy. Postnatal classes are suitable for babies up to one years of age.

- For more details on the fitness classes visit www.cardiff.gov.uk/leisure

Don't live in discomfort

DISABLED people in Cardiff can get help to live more comfortably at home from the Council's Disabled Facilities Service.

The service helps to make adaptions to people's homes including providing ramps, installing stair lifts, widening doorways and much more.

The service has seen a huge increase in the number of people requesting support to help them remain in their home or return to their home from hospital. In 2005/6 the service received 837 requests and this has almost doubled to 1597 in 2011.

To apply for the service contact 029 2087 2087 and an occupational therapist will then visit your property to assess what work is required.

Cardiff's recycling rate surges past 50 per cent

CARDIFF is leading the way on recycling in Wales, with the news that the percentage of municipal waste being collected for recycling or composting has exceeded 50 per cent.

Cardiff Council has consistently improved the rate of municipal waste it has collected for recycling in the last few years, and since the switch to a weekly recycling and food waste collection service in September the rate has risen a further 12 per cent compared to the same time last year.

Prior to the introduction of weekly recycling and food waste collections in September 2011 recycling rates had improved steadily from last year's figure of 42 per cent, but since the new service changes were implemented the Council is delighted to report that the recycling rate for the last three months of 2011 has soared to 54 per cent.

These excellent figures look set to exceed Welsh Government (WG) targets in the coming year with Cardiff becoming a leading recycling city.

Cardiff is seeing a major improvement in its recycling rates with an overall recycling rate of 53 per cent projected for the whole of the 2011/12 financial year, above the WG target of 52 per cent set for the next financial year, 2012/13. To be ahead of the WG target one year ahead of schedule is testament to how well the biggest change in household waste collection for 10 years has been embraced by Cardiff residents.

Sustaining this rapid rate of recycling over the next financial year would mean that Cardiff is well on track to achieve 58 per cent for 2012/13, continuing to surge well ahead of WG targets.

This is an excellent achievement and the response from Cardiff residents has been fantastic. Residents have never had a better opportunity to recycle and compost the waste they produce, and the Council is grateful to them for the enthusiastic way they have embraced the authority's sustainable vision.

Executive Member for Environment, Councillor Margaret Jones, said: "This is a very significant achievement for Cardiff Council and its residents and we're delighted with the progress made so far. As well as achieving sustainability goals it also decreases the future cost of landfill tax and landfill allowance scheme penalties as well as recycling fines that could otherwise rapidly accumulate to millions of pounds over a few years.

"I thank the residents of Cardiff and our hard working Council staff for helping us to make the recycling collection change such a success. The results are fantastic so far, and I hope we can all work together to ensure we keep improving and building on this excellent set of figures."Leader of Cardiff Council, Councillor Rodney Berman added: "This Council has seized the sustainability agenda and revolutionised the way Cardiff deals with its recyclable waste. These figures are outstanding and justify all the hard work that has gone into moving to a weekly recycling and food waste service, the biggest change to the city's waste collection in a decade.

"We are proud to be leading the recycling charge for Wales, and the people of Cardiff who have responded so magnificently to our new service can be assured the hard work will continue in building, year in year out, on this considerable achievement."

Biodiversity Corner

Biodiversity is all living things. It provides us with food, clothing, medicine, building materials and fuel. It helps reduce stress and aids relaxation. Each month Cardiff Council ecologist Laura Palmer will point out some of the great biodiversity you can see across the city.

MARCH

As the nights get shorter, and at last the clocks "spring forward", there is a sense of optimism in the air for the season ahead.

Early summer bird migrants start to arrive back from warmer wintering homes, including the Wheatear, one of the first to arrive back, all the way from Central Africa.

In the woodland the ground is green with shoots. Woodland ground flora such as Wood Anemone and Dog's Mercury are coming in to flower. Look carefully for the green flowers of Dog's Mercury. A trip through any of our beautiful woodlands at this time of the year will be rewarded with these fresh spring colours.

While in the woodlands listen out for the 'teacher – teacher' call of the Great Tit. You may see mixed flocks of Blue, Long-tailed and Great tits feeding on tree buds and the first emerging insects.

2012/13 Budget
- where your money goes

ONCE again, despite the ongoing economic climate, Cardiff Council has continued to make huge savings and been able to increase budgets for key services.

Savings worth around £14m have been made this year while extra funding has gone to priority areas such as education and highways maintenance.

Executive Member for Finance and Service Delivery, Councillor Mark Stephens, said the budget would deliver key services to the most vulnerable residents of Cardiff while still ensuring the massive savings could be made.

"Over the past eight years Cardiff's council tax rise has been the lowest of any authority in Wales and that is a record to be very proud of. We have identified savings of £14m which we intend to achieve by avoiding the need for compulsory redundancies," he said.

"I am particularly pleased that the biggest single saving indentified in our budget report of £1.3m is through less waste going to landfill as recycling has increased so much."

SAVINGS

Cardiff Council is making £14m worth of savings, with £10m coming from its transformation project. These include:

£1.4m from senior management costs.

£4.8m from procurement and contract negotiation.

£1m from additional income such as recycling materials.

£1.6m through the restructuring of services.

£1.3m through less waste going to landfill and increased recycling rates.

£1.1m from administration.

EDUCATION

- A £4.465m (+2.4%) increase in schools' delegated budgets, which assists in taking spending on education to 3.51% above the allocation suggested by the Welsh Government.
- Ten extra staff will be hired to improve school attendance levels
- The council is also hoping to secure the support of headteachers to spend £4m on introducing WiFi at every city school.

BUSINESS AND ECONOMY

- £18m has been allocated to progress the delivery of an International Conference and Convention Centre which will be a key part of the Central Business District.

HIGHWAYS MAINTENANCE

- A total investment of approximately £44m for resurfacing roads and replacing pavements. This includes an increased amount each year spent on maintaining roads and pavements to keep them in an improved state.

RECYCLING AND CLEANSING

- £170,000 to increase resources for cleansing including additional staff such as street sweepers.
- £825,000 to increase recycling at household waste recycling centres

SOCIAL CARE

- A net increase of £2.269m for Adult Services (+2.8%) and £2.923m for Children's Services (+7.3%). This represents an overall increase of £5.192m (+4.3%) which exceeds the increase of 1.58% set by the Welsh Government.
- £377,000 to be spent on 12 extra staff in the council's children's services department.

LIBRARIES AND COMMUNITY FACILITIES

- Building on the successful 'citizen hub' pilots in St Mellons and Llanrumney libraries, £3m will be spent over three years to provide access to advice services within local communities.

REGENERATION

- £11.5m is budgeted for a new Central Bus Station and redevelopment of Central Square, which is due to start in September.

CRIME AND ANTI SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR

- An extra £200,000 for measures to combat crime and anti-social behaviour including more alley-gating.

Musuem nominated for national award

Museum goers enjoying The Cardiff Story

CARDIFF'S brand new social history museum, The Cardiff Story, has been nominated for the Sunday Telegraph Family Friendly Museum Award which recognises museums that have demonstrated they have activities, events and displays that any family can enjoy.

Since opening its doors for the first time in April 2011, more than 250,000 visitors from across the globe have visited the Cardiff Council and Heritage Lottery funded museum. These visitors have had the chance to get their hands on Cardiff's history through the museum's colourful and interactive displays.

Children have their very own area where they can piece together clues about Cardiff's history, recreating characters from the past through play, dressing up and handling old objects.

The museums that have been nominated for the award will now be presented to a panel of judges, chaired by Jenny Abramsky, chair of the Heritage Lottery Fund. These judges will pick a shortlist of six museums, which are then road-tested anonymously by families, using the Kids in Museums Manifesto 2012 as a guide to their family friendliness.

Museum Officer Victoria Rogers said:

"We've worked very hard to try to dispel the myth that museums are fusty and boring places to visit by presenting Cardiff's amazing story in a way that appeals to everyone, especially children and families. It is particularly pleasing to have been nominated for the Sunday Telegraph Family Friendly Museum Award because it is ultimately judged by families themselves – the real experts!"

Entry to The Cardiff Story is free and the galleries are open seven days a week.

- If you are interested in becoming a mystery museum judge to help pick the winning museum, email award@kidsinmuseums.org.uk

Library books thrilling the city

The Top Ten Cardiff Books
1. The Lost Symbol - Dan Brown
2. Wolf Hall - Hilary Mantel
3. The Finkler Question - Howard Jacobson
4. Room - Emma Donoghue
5. Worth Dying For - Lee Child
6. 61 Hours - Lee Child
7. The Short Second Life Of Bree Tanner : an Eclipse Novella - Stephenie Meyer
8. Private - James Patterson
9. Caught - Harlan Coben
10. The Girl With The Dragon Tattoo - Stieg Larsson

IF the top ten books borrowed from Cardiff's libraries are anything to go by the city is full of super sleuths and would-be detectives.

A staggering six out of the ten books in the top ten most borrowed books in Cardiff are crime thrillers.

Dan Brown tops the chart with The Lost Symbol, a crime thriller set in Washington DC after the events of The Da Vinci Code.

Other favourite genres in the top ten Cardiff were fiction, teen horror and historical fiction.

The figures released by Public Lending Right show that Cardiff has very different tastes to the UK as a whole, with only three books featuring in both top tens, however Dan Brown's popularity stretches across the whole of the UK topping both charts.

Executive Member for Sport, Culture and Leisure, Councillor Nigel Howells, said: "It appears that there are a lot of wannabe Miss Marples and Sherlock Holmes in Cardiff. It's really interesting to see what books are the most borrowed in the city and it also helps us to decide which books we need to invest in."

Cardiff pupils raise money for Ghana orphanage

A group of Cardiff pupils have helped provide running water for an orphanage in Ghana.

The pupils took part in a number of sponsored events, as part of the The Virtual Inclusion Programme, after hearing the desperate plight of an orphanage to stay open.

"The pupils enrolled on The Virtual Inclusion Programme (VIP) regularly raise money for charity," said Dave Riddell, who runs the programme through the Behaviour Support Team in Mynachdy.

"When we heard about this orphanage, we contacted their director in Ghana ourselves and expressed our desire to help in any way possible."

The Love Kids Orphanage is based in a rural village called Nkoranza in central Ghana and had put out an appeal for money to install a water system so that the children didn't have to walk or to pay for much needed water.

"We raised £270 from a sponsored bike ride to Castell Coch," said Dave. "The money has not only paid for their new water system but has also helped with new accommodation for the children."

As well as giving vulnerable children and orphans a home, the orphanage also provides education, health care, and a happy and nurturing environment.

"We will be doing more fundraising this term with young people on VIP and will be supporting the orphanage for the foreseeable future."

The Virtual Inclusion Programme offers an alternative provision for those at risk of permanent exclusion from mainstream schools.

It also provides an accredited course that matches the pupils learning styles with modern teaching styles, while working to raise their confidence and self-esteem.

This helps to encourage the pupils' participation and self-expression. Each of them attends for 12 weeks (one term), with the opportunity to achieve a Youth Challenge Award.

"The programme started off as a pilot scheme initially for one year. We then proved that the programme was a success in keeping young people out of risk from permanent exclusion from their mainstream school," added Dave Edwards, who co-runs the programme with Dave.

"With every cohort of young people we work with we raise money for different charities."

- If you want to know more about the Orphanage or get involved please contact The Virtual Inclusion Programme on www.brynyderyn.cardiff.sch.uk or call 029 2052 9398.

Out on the tiles at West Lodge

A large collection of Victorian tiles will be brought back into public view after almost four decades, following a real-life historical jigsaw puzzle, which has taken place in Bute Park.

Approximately 1,500 loose tiles dating back to the late 19th Century, were valiantly lifted and recovered from the Blackfriars Friary site in 1977 by members of the Victorian Society and have lain in storage ever since.

Staff from Cardiff Council were joined by volunteers from the Bute Park Friends Group and original members of the team who first lifted the tiles, to carry out the task of putting them back together again ready for a new home.

The project will see the 125 year old artefacts re-layed in the nearby West Lodge building, which is currently undergoing a transformation as a tea room.

The tiled floor will form a centre piece for the well-known landmark, located on Castle Street opposite the Holiday Inn hotel, which will also have an outdoor seating area, small gift shop as well as an upstairs exhibition/gallery space. It will also provide additional public toilets within the park.

The refurbished West Lodge is due to open at the end of March and is part of the £5.6m Bute Park Restoration Project, supported by a £3.1m grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF).

Executive Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Nigel Howells said: "This is a hugely exciting project. These unique tiles tell a story and it is fantastic that they will be used as one of the beautiful features of the new West Lodge tea room."

Genocide victims remembered

HOLOCAUST Memorial Day - the international day of remembrance for victims of the Holocaust and other genocides – has taken place at City Hall.

The day honours the survivors and remembers those who have lost their lives. It also provides an opportunity for society to reflect on the way in which we live our lives today.

Each year Holocaust Memorial Day has a UK wide theme and this year's theme was Speak Up, Speak Out to create a safer, better future. The theme asks people to think about the rights, responsibility and duty we all have to speak up when we see or hear something which we believe to be wrong.

Attending the service was the Lord Mayor of Cardiff, Councillor Delme Bowen, Cardiff Council Leader, Councillor Rodney Berman and First Minister of Wales Carwyn Jones.

The Lord Mayor said: "Holocaust Memorial Day is a very poignant day, remembering those who lost their lives simply because of their race and their religion. It's important that we continue to learn from the mistakes made from the past and teach future generations about this terrible time in history. "

Councillor Berman added: "Many people across the world have been affected by the Holocaust and subsequent genocides. It is vital we take time to ensure they are never forgotten, and do all we can to speak out so we can provide a safer future for everyone.

"Holocaust Memorial Day is important for not only remembering those who have lost their lives, but also for ensuring awareness of these dreadful atrocities."

Cardiff City defender opens new school facility

The defender was at the school in Fidlas Avenue, Cyncoed to officially open its brand new multi-use games area (MUGA) and to launch the SportCardiff/FAW Primary School Football Accreditation Scheme, which aims to increase the participation in football amongst boys and girls of primary school age.

It is intended that the scheme, which is a joint initiative between Cardiff Council and Cardiff City FC, will also raise the profile of football within curricular and extra-curricular provision, whilst improving the quality of delivery of the sport through professional training and development.

The player was certainly a hit amongst the children who lined the sides of the MUGA to cheer him on.

Executive Member for Education and Lifelong Learning, Councillor Freda Salway said: "This is an excellent new sports facility which will be a valuable resource for the school and it was great to see Andrew Taylor come and officially open it. MUGAs encourage schools to promote football and basketball amongst pupils which leads to a healthy and active participation in sport."

He added: "Sport.Cardiff and the Cardiff City Football Club Community Foundation continue to work together to deliver exceptional football provision and increase access to football in the city. Schools who choose to participate in the new scheme will receive benefits such as access to free education courses and workshops for their coaches."

Twitching the night away

AN event has taken place at the Bute Park Education Centre giving families the opportunity to learn how to spot and identify different bird species that inhabit the park and their own gardens.

Hosted by the Friends of Bute Park the event was also designed to help the RSPB in its annual Big Garden Bird Watch which encourages people to count garden birds to see whether bird numbers are increasing or decreasing and what species are in danger of disappearing.

Visitors to the Education Centre had the chance to meet owls and birds of prey from The Owl Sanctuary as well as participating in games and activities, including making bird feeders.

Executive Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Nigel Howells said: "Bute Park is a magnificent attraction in the heart of the city which boasts a rich and diverse range of wildlife.

"This successful event gave families across the city the opportunity to come along to the Bute Park Education Centre and assist the RSPB in spotting the wonderful breeds of birds that inhabit this fantastic park."

He added: "The RSPB Big Garden Bird Watch has been running for over 30 years, giving the charity the opportunity to compare bird numbers in each region year by year to build a bigger picture of what is happening with our UK bird populations."

Lord Mayor has a Cwtch at Craft In The Bay

THE Lord Mayor, Councillor Delme Bowen, visited Craft in the Bay to open their recent exhibition 'Cwtch'.

Craft in the Bay is a gallery, based on the Flourish at the south end of Lloyd George Avenue, that shows off and sells craft work made in Wales.

Run by the Makers Guild in Wales, the venue regularly exhibits jewellery, ceramics, textiles, metal work and bespoke furniture.

Its latest exhibition, which runs until April 22, is 'Drawing, Permanence & Place' bringing together artists working in contemporary enamel, who share a passion for drawing as a means to convey ideas and concepts.

Lord Mayor celebrates Zena's milestone

THE Lord Mayor, Councillor Delme Bowen, presented a very special lady with a bouquet of flowers to celebrate her 100th birthday.

Zena Ponton was born in Caerleon in 1912 and moved to Cardiff in 1952 where she has lived ever since.

She married her husband Tom on September 3, 1938 exactly one year before the Second World War broke out and has very vivid memories of the blitz.

They had one child Michael who was born in 1946.

He said: "My father passed away in 1991 and, while this was a terrible loss to us all, my mother kept up an active life and has been proudly and determinedly independent ever since. Even now she cares for herself and is almost completely self sufficient, defying her great age both in looks, mind, attitude and dexterity."

Zena has four grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The Lord Mayor visited Zena at St Andrews's Methodist Church, Caerphilly Road in Birchgrove to present her with the flowers and wish her many happy returns on her special day.

He said: "It was a privilege for the Lady Mayoress and I to meet Zena to celebrate her 100th birthday with her family and friends from St Andrews Methodist Church Lunch Club.

"It was lovely to see that Zena leads an active life and is still independent at her age. Very best wishes and congratulations to Zena on her special day"

Nipping garden crime in the bud

WITH longer daylight hours and the promise of warmer weather on the horizon, police in Cardiff are reminding residents across the city to remain vigilant as they begin to spend more time outdoors, paying particular attention to the security of their sheds, garages and gardens.

With lighter nights and the desire to be outside more, people start to enjoy new activities in the garden without any thought for crime opportunities they may be creating.

Garden sheds are often easy targets for burglars. Even if you don't keep anything of value in your shed like bicycles and golf clubs, burglars can use garden tools to break into your property, or your neighbour's.

By taking steps to secure our property we can make it harder for thieves."

Our top ten tips for nipping garden crime in the bud are:

- Ensure the door, door frame and walls of your shed are solid. Replace any damaged or rotting areas with new sections. Secure padlock hasps and door hinges with threaded coach bolts, with backing plates or large backing washers to prevent the bolt being pulled through the wood.
- Never leave your garage or garden shed unlocked, especially if it has a connecting door to the house – a thief could get in and work on the inner door in privacy.
- Fit a padlock or locked bolt to 'up and over' garage doors for extra security supplied with standard lock fittings should also be fitted with a padlock or lockable bolt.
- Use a window lock on opening windows and a strong grille or heavy wire mesh. Consider using net curtains to deter casual viewing and if the windows are never opened, screw them permanently from the inside.
- Replace any broken panes with laminated glass. You could use a perspex or polycarbonate sheet.
- Fit a battery-operated shed alarm.
- Lock ladders and tools inside the garage or shed to stop a thief using them to reach inaccessible windows. If ladders have to be left outdoors padlock them horizontally to a sturdy bracket on an outside wall. Secure bikes in sheds and garages using anchor points.
- Postcode all property such as lawnmowers, hedge trimmers and garden furniture. This can be done with ultraviolet pens, engraving or stamping. You could even use spray paint which would reduce the saleable value to a thief.
- Take photographs of any valuable items such as bikes, shredders and also garden ornaments. If they are stolen police can circulate the photo to dealers who can look out for your property.
- Register any property you have with serial numbers for free on www.immobilise.com.

When you've made your garden, shed or any outbuildings more secure, remember to lock things away every time. It only takes a minute to pick something up and walk off, so don't be tempted to leave anything outside.

If you see anyone acting suspicious around your property or your neighbour's property contact us on 999. To report a shed burglary after the incident please call 101.

If you are unfortunate enough to be a victim then rest assured we will do all we can to arrest the offender.

Tiger Bay Brawlers rolling to success

SPORT Cardiff has launched a new junior roller derby club in partnership with the Tiger Bay Brawlers.

The exciting project will be the first in Wales to link with the renowned Cardiff based club.

Roller derby is a contact sport played by two teams of five members roller skating in the same direction around a track.

The game consists of a series of short 'jams' in which both teams designate a scoring player who gains points by lapping members of the opposing team.

Roller derby originated in America in the 1930s and is now played by 1,000 amateur leagues all over the world.

The Tiger Bay Brawlers were founded in April 2010 and were the first Welsh league to affiliate to the UK Roller Derby Association. They now compete with teams all over the UK.

The new roller derby provision is part of the Sport.Cardiff 5x60 school sports development initiative, a Welsh Government funded programme available to schools across Cardiff, which encourages children to take part in 60 minutes of physical activity five times a week.

The new junior club will give children and young people the opportunity to try out this exciting sport which they may usually not have access to.

It is an opportunity to get a feel for roller derby and a chance for participants to go on and join the Tiger Bay Brawlers club.

Executive Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Nigel Howells said: "Sport.Cardiff continue to deliver inspiring and original sports provision to school children across Cardiff.

"It is fantastic that young people can experience new and unique sports such as roller derby, and allows new opportunities to participate in club activity in the future."

Tiger Bay Brawlers coach, Kat Chevis also known as Judge Redd, said: "We're thrilled to be the first league in Wales to become affiliated with junior derby.

"Hopefully this will be the start of an ongoing venture between the Tiger Bay Brawlers and schools in Cardiff, and pave the way for junior leagues to establish. Who knows, we could be training the roller derby stars of the future and that's really exciting!"

Gethin Jones gets ready for Sport Relief

Sport Relief 2012 - go the extra mile

SPORT Relief is back – and it's coming to Cardiff!

The city is set to host one of the flagship Sainsbury's Sport Relief Miles on Sunday March 25, and needs the people of Cardiff to show their support by entering the event.

This year, over one million people are expected to pull up their socks and take part in the Sainsbury's Sport Relief Mile in order to raise some serious cash for vulnerable people right here in Cardiff, across the UK and in the world's poorest countries.

Join thousands of people in beautiful Cardiff Bay, with a route that takes in the Roald Dahl Plass, the Wales Millennium Centre and the Pierhead building, as well as being packed full of entertainment and friendly faces - some famous - to cheer you on.

Last time, more than 4000 people took part in the Cardiff Mile, and the people of Wales have raised and donated over £1m. Since then, more than £1.9m has been spent on local projects in Wales.

Also, as part of this year's event is the DHL First Nation Home which is the ultimate sporting showdown between England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

1,000 members of the public, who each secured one of the limited places to represent their country, will run the final six miles to the finish, alongside famous faces in their individual teams, including Gethin Jones, Gareth Thomas, Richard Parks and Iwan Thomas, to determine which nation is the first winner of the inaugural First Nation Home challenge.

• You can go the extra mile too by choosing to take on one, three, or six miles for the Sport Relief event and can enter online at www.sportrelief.com/cardiff

New pilot project to help Cardiff households save on bills

ENVIRONMENT Agency Wales and the Energy Saving Trust are working on a new pilot project in Cardiff that aims to help households save water and energy and reduce waste.

The Living Wise Cardiff pilot project aims to help people make changes to their daily lives, to reduce their use of natural resources and reduce their bills.

The pilot follows in the footsteps of similar, pioneering behaviour change projects, such as the highly successful LivingSmart schemes in Ipswich and LivingSmart/WaterSmart schemes in Australia, which addressed CO^2 emissions from broader energy use and waste.

A key aim is to reduce greenhouse gas emissions from direct hot water use by providing households with an individual plan, making it easier for them to do things differently and embrace climate-friendly living.

Six per cent of all carbon dioxide emissions in the UK come from water use, with nearly 90 per cent of this coming from water use in the home. On average, each person in Wales uses 149 litres of water per day - much of which is wasted.

Industry experts the Energy Saving Trust will manage the project on behalf of Environment Agency Wales, which will see 1000 Cardiff households targeted after being awarded £35,000 as part of the Welsh Government's 'Supporting Sustainable Living' grant scheme.

Cardiff Council is a partner in the scheme, along with Dŵr Cymru Welsh Water, who have the long-term aims of reducing water, waste and energy usage.

Food businesses get top food hygiene rating

FOLLOWING routine inspections more than 500 food businesses in Cardiff have achieved a top rating of five for having very good standards of hygiene.

The Food Hygiene Rating Scheme, operated by Cardiff Council in partnership with the Food Standards Agency, rates the food hygiene standards of places where people eat or buy food.

Food outlets, such as restaurants, takeaways and pubs, are inspected by food safety officers from the Council, to check that their hygiene standards meet legal requirements. The hygiene standards found at these inspections are rated on a scale ranging from zero at the bottom (which means 'urgent improvement necessary') to a top rating of five ('very good').

These ratings are available for anyone to view on the FSA website at food.gov.uk/ratings and the food business are given a sticker and certificate and encouraged to display these at the entrance to their premises. This means that their customers can easily see them and decide if they want to go in.
